Gallery Mint Museum goes Hollywood

Dunbar Springs, ARK. —

It was lights, camera, action! at the Gallery Mint Museum last month, with the filming of a documentary on the history of the United States Mint Mike Craven, an independent producer from Los Angeles, Calif., visited the Gallery Mint Museum to provide authentic-looking video footage of the making of America's first coins. The documentary, which will be finished in December, will be offered to PBS and marketed to schools and libraries. Air dates and times are not yet scheduled.

The Gallery Mint Museum portion represents the history of the first U.S. Mint with action scenes of many of Child's equipment

Take Note!—AETN Videographer Michelle Warden and Assistant Creative Executive shoot. GMM Assistant Collector Adam Harbottle filling Green Card request at the press.

Register to win a "Strawberry Leaf" Wreath Cent reproduction as rare as the real thing.

We couldn't explore the 1793 Wreath Cent history and reproduction without dipping into the mystery of the very rare variety known as the "strawberry leaf" of which only four are known to exist. No one seems to know much about it, why it was made, why only four survived or what happened to give it such short life. But while we can't answer these questions, we can reproduce at We'll give away four of these rarities—reproductions of course, — to four lucky winners!

Here's how to enter!
